I'm writing a resource file for use by C# and want to add a new function to Dictionary. I have written my new class called MaxStringVal where MaxStringVal is a struct that holds the max string values for any key in a given dictionary. The idea is that I can access this information by querying the data source and getting the max values for a particular key. The documentation for Dictionary is confusing in that it states You can call this method to get a string that
